

Training

Staff

Colin Heffey the Facilities and Estates Manager at NPTC Group has undergone formal Environmental Management Training. Other members of staff throughout the college have also undergone some form of environmental training either through courses or through university education in the form of MScs and BScs in Environmental Management.

Many members of staff at NPTC Group have completed training in Health & Safety, Fire Marshalling and First Aid. The training records which identify the members of staff that have undergone this training can be located within the estates department.

Role specific environmental training will be provided to members of NPTC Group's Estate Department. Training shall include:

- HSE Induction
- Risk Assessment Awareness and Practice
- COSHH Assessment
- Asbestos
- Environmental Awareness
- Emergency spill Procedure
- Sustainable Procurement

Training received by NPTC Group's Estate Department shall be recorded in a departmental training spreadsheet in order to successfully identify all environmental training requirements.

Students

NPTC Group participates in ESGCC thus all students undergo environmental and sustainability training in the form of a presentation at induction. The principles of sustainability and environmental issues are also worked into many of the courses at the college, thus students are constantly being reminded of their environmental responsibility and good environmental practices.
